Identity theft is the fastest growing crime in the United States today! More than 10 million people fell victim to identity theft last year; on average each victim's loss was $800 and it took more than 12 months to clear their name...and that's not even taking into account all of the never ending phone calls and piles of paperwork each victim has to suffer through.

Many people who are victims of identity theft often think they were victimized by sophisticated high-tech Internet hackers who somehow compromised their computers. In reality, it is often a thief who simply removes key information from your curbside mailbox when you are at home, work or at the store it takes exactly one second to reach inside your mailbox and remove the contents.
